

BPhone

Friday, 01 January 2010

Well the Chinese surely knows how to make their electronics, whereby the latest BPhone is surely something out of the ordinary. Of course, this particular device is actually a netbook, and it even runs on the Windows XP platform. On the other hand, the BPhone comes with a QWERTY keyboard which is miniature enough for you to type. Also, the BPhone comes with a 5-inch display, and the display unit can rotate just like a tablet.

Still I find it to be rather confusing with the manufacturer naming their product as a BPhone it s not really a phone right?