

Barnes & Noble 'Publt!' Self-publi

Tuesday, 12 October 2010

Wouldn't it be nice if you can simply write a book and sell it yourself? Surely, sure book-writing and selling model would definitely give writers an option to sell their books personally, without needing to find an appropriate publisher. Nevertheless, Barnes & Noble has just recently showcased their latest Publt self-publishing portal, and I find the respective web portal to be simply interesting indeed.

Basically, the Barnes & Noble Publt self-publishing portal provides independent writers a venue to sell their masterpiece, and writers can also convert their files to ePUB and put it on sale. Also, publishers can sell their books for $2.99 to $9.99, and they will get 65% of the list price of every book sold.

Well if you have been striving to become a world-renown writer, perhaps you should start writing some books and sell it online on Barnes & Noble Publt self-publishing portal?