

Spitballs

Wednesday, 15 July 2015

My niece plays the trumpet at school, and she is part of the school band, which I think is pretty cool. According to my niece, she practices her trumpet regularly, and because she uses her trumpet so often, her trumpet gets dirty pretty easily. Her trumpet hygiene really concerns me, and after spending some time researching the internet for the right trumpet cleaner, it looks like spitballs does the job pretty well. The respective trumpet cleaner isn't expensive, but more importantly, it removes dirt and other filthy things that might stick on your trumpet, and based on the testimonials, the respective product does its job marvelously!
